Role of diagnostic imaging for COVID-19*:

- Chest x-ray and Chest CT are not for diagnosis of COVID-19 and cannot be used to exclude COVID-19 infection.
- Chest x-rays are not for routine use in the workup of suspected COVID-19 patients. Diagnostic testing for COVID-19 positive patients should be triaged via a SHA COVID-19 Assessment and Treatment clinic.
- Chest CT is used only in the hospital setting to look for complications.
- Emergent/urgent community imaging for known COVID-19 positive patients should consider whether findings are likely to alter management. Referral to the SHA COVID-19 Assessment and Treatment clinic is strongly recommended.
